MATETIC EQ GRANITE PINOT NOIR 2016

Sustainable, DO Valle de Casablanca, Chile
21952 (XD) 750 mL $22.95 🍷

Valle Hermoso was first planted in 2006 very close to the sea in the Casablanca zone, 10 kilometers from the Pacific. This pinot comes from there, and it reveals a maritime influence in a fruit-focused wine. Ripe red fruit flavors rely on firm, tense acidity – a column of acidity that travels across the palate. With 30% stems to support the structure (which they do very well), this is a weighty wine with good body, but it hasn't lost its freshness. [Drink through 2023.] Score: 94 (Patricio Tapia, guiadescorchados.cl, 2020)

Under the Tuscan Sun

Legendary for its stunning landscapes, Tuscany is equally admired for its roster of native grapes and signature blends.

Amidst the sun-dappled hills, parasol pines, cypress trees and olive groves of central Italy, vineyards have been planted and wine made since at least the 12th century (and possibly far longer). Much has happened in that time – the region has seen such luminaries as Dante, da Vinci, Michelangelo and Galileo – yet the landscape and essential character of Tuscany remain the same. Here, we tour Italy's most renowned region and the wines for which it's famous.

in Asciano.

Chianti Classico

Classic Tuscan beauty.

Dining alfresco
in Castellina.

What began as a white wine in the 14th century has gone on to become one of the world's most famous reds. The modern version is made primarily from Sangiovese, which is Tuscany's signature grape variety. The most highly regarded wines come from Chianti Classico: a handful of villages from Siena in the south to the hills above Florence. Wines labelled Riserva must be aged for two years, while those labelled Gran Selezione must come from the Classico zone and be aged for 30 months. Chianti is an elegant wine typically evocative of red fruit, dried herbs, leather, balsamic vinegar and game.

CLEMENTE VII GRAN SELEZIONE
CHIANTI CLASSICO 2015

DOCG

(Castelli del Grevepesa)

The 2015 Chianti Classico Gran Selezione Clemente VII is a powerful, rustic wine. Red fruit, white pepper, sage, mint and iron give the 2015 its distinctive feral personality. I am not sure the searing tannins will ever fully soften. The 2015 is very much a Chianti Classico for rich fare at the dinner table. Drinking window: 2021-2030. # Brunello

All signs point to wonder.

The town of Montalcino.

Surrounding the hill town of Montalcino in the province of Siena grows a locally specialized clone of the Sangiovese grape. Noted for its quality, by the late 14th century it was known as Brunello and in 1865 it was first labelled as such on a wine bottle. Brunello di Montalcino, which is typically more robust than Chianti, is traditionally aged for at least three years in large oak casks. Bold and sophisticated, the wines evoke ripe cherry, plum, dried herbs, leather, cured meat and terracotta.

CANTINA DI MONTALCINO
BRUNELLO DI MONTALCINO 2016

This has a complex nose of black plums, cloves and cigar smoke. Lots of chocolate. It's full-bodied with good depth and intensity. Firm but ripe tannins. Chocolate and cherries on the finish. Drink after 2024. Score: 95 (jamesuckling.com, Nov. 11, 2020)

GAJA CA'MARCANDA PROMIS 2019 IGP Toscana

In the creation of this wine, the legendary Gaja family takes Merlot, Syrah and Sangiovese and ferments and matures them separately for 12 months in oak before blending and bottling. The result is a taut, structured affair that brings elegance and intensity in equal measure. Pour with steak Florentine or garlic-crusted rack of lamb.

A medieval fort still guards the village of Bolgheri.

In the 1970s, a handful of maverick Tuscan winemakers began blending the local Sangiovese with French grape varieties, most notably Cabernet Sauvignon and Merlot. Their creations were initially branded as heresy, but the quality of the wine was undeniable, and in 1992, the wines were given their own official designation: Indicazione Geografica Tipica (IGT). In 1994, vineyards surrounding the village of Bolgheri, whose gravelly soils near the coast of the Tyrrhenian Sea are reminiscent of Bordeaux, were granted Denominazione di Origine Controllata (DOC) status. Noted for their power and structure, the wines of Bolgheri are aged two years before release.

ORNELLAIA 2018

DOC Bolgheri Superiore

The 2018 Ornellaia is an introvert at this stage. Medium in body, with terrific persistence and impeccable balance, the 2018 is not in any mood to show all its cards today. Hints of red berry fruit, mocha, spice, licorice and dried flowers emerge with a bit of coaxing. I won't be surprised to see it put on weight with more time in bottle. There is certainly plenty to look forward to. Readers should expect a silky, aromatic Ornellaia in line with vintages such as 2004 that are more about finesse than raw power. This is the first time in which Merlot drives the blend in Ornellaia. Drinking window: 2025-2040. Score: 97 (Antonio Galloni, vinous.com, Jan. 2021)

Tuscany is home to a wealth of red wines above and beyond the household names. Some of these, such as Morellino di Scansano (“Morellino” being a local name for Sangiovese in the village of Scansano), are established enough to have their own Denominazione di Origine Controllata e Garantita (DOCG) designations. Others are newer or lesser-known wines based on local and/or international grape varieties. A few even employ some surprising vinicultural techniques, such as the ancient “governo” method that incorporates dried grapes into the winemaking.

An old well and the town hall in Montepulciano's Piazza Grande. BOTTOM: Rural Montepulciano.

POGGIO CIVETTA GOVERNO ALL'USO 2019

IGT Toscana
(Farnese)

The governo method involves partially drying a portion of the fruit for use in the winemaking process, adding extra richness and mouth-feel. This blend of 70% Sangiovese with 20% Merlot and 5% apiece of Cabernet Sauvignon and Syrah will conjure fresh cherry, cherry preserves, currants and spice. Pour with pasta in a sun-dried-tomato marinara sauce.

Letters of the Law

Since the 1960s, Italian wines have been labelled according to official regulations for things such as geographical origin, grape variety, maximum yield and minimum ageing requirements. Here's what those labels mean.

Denominazione di Origine Controllata e Garantita (DOCG)

Intended as the highest classification tier for Italian wines, this category includes all the requirements of the DOC tier in addition to government-licensed panel tastings of the wines to ensure quality.

Denominazione di Origine Controllata (DOC)

This category requires a wine to be produced in a specified geographic region and meet defined quality standards, including rules for permitted grape varieties, harvest yields, alcohol content, and minimum ageing in barrel and bottle.

Indicazione Geografica Tipica (IGT)

Introduced in 1992 to allow greater freedom for Italy's winemakers (particularly those making Supertuscans), this category focuses on region of origin rather than grape variety or wine style.

Vino da Tavola

The most generic category, this is essentially a catch-all for wines that don't meet the requirements of the other classifications.

Although modern Tuscany is best known for its red wines, its white wines have just as long a history and can be just as impressive. Historically, the predominant grape varieties for white wines were Vernaccia and Trebbiano, and many of the wines were sweet. Today the wines are typically dry, and some of the best modern Tuscan whites are made from Vermentino (a variety indigenous to neighbouring Liguria), Chardonnay and others. As with the red wines of the region, these are versatile, food-friendly wines made for the dinner table.

A DIFFERENCE- MAKER'S DOZEN

Meet four of the 13 certified-sustainable Ontario wineries who are bettering the planet with practices that extend from soil to shelf.

To become certified sustainable, a winery must adopt a rigorous, comprehensive program of environmentally responsible technologies and practices. The wines produced by SWO-certified wineries proudly display the green-leaf logo; a guarantee that the winery has observed all the strict requirements for “a sustainable soil-to-shelf path throughout the winemaking process.” To date, 13 Ontario wineries have sought SWO certification. Space restraints mean we can only highlight four here, but all are deserving of recognition. Be sure to also check out Château des Charmes, Henry of Pelham Family Estate, Hidden Bench Estate Winery, Malivoire Wine Company, Pelee Island Winery, Pillitteri Estates Winery, Reif Estate Winery, Southbrook Organic Vineyards and Strewn Winery.

Cave Spring Vineyard's comprehensive approach to sustainable winemaking provides an excellent overview of many of the processes and strategies employed by sustainable-wine producers, both in the vineyard and winery. They use a mixture of grasses to help control weeds and erosion and they encourage many endangered species, such as the little brown bat, to make their homes in the vicinity of the vineyard. The bats, and others, repay their hosts by consuming large numbers of insects, alleviating the need for chemical intervention. Cave Spring uses indigenous yeasts for fermentation and ages their wines almost exclusively in old neutral oak, helping preserve oak forests around the world. The winery's main warehouse is powered entirely by solar panels.

With an influence that reaches back to 1979, Vineland Estates Winery has long been a driving force in Ontario winemaking. Their sustainable initiatives include switching lights from conventional to LED, reducing water usage by re-evaluating their cleaning procedures and introducing low-flow water taps where possible, improving insulation, installing timers and motion sensors, and upgrading their equipment. Their sustainable efforts go further than just reducing chemical agents in farming or reducing waste and wastewater. They also incorporate fair wages and working conditions and are committed to contributing to their community. Vineland supports several charitable causes through their Legacy and Game Changer programs.

Founded in 1999, Flat Rock Cellars has always been committed to preserving the integrity of the land. Measures include employing geothermal systems to heat and cool the winery and using gravity throughout the winemaking process to limit energy use. Flat Rock's four pillars of sustainability (success, people, community and environment) are an essential component of every aspect of their business. Their Green Roof Patio sits atop their barrel cellar and warehouse, which is built right into the geological bench formation on the property. This allows them to take advantage of a naturally insulated underground space to age and store their wines.

When Stratus opened to the public in 2005, it was the world's first LEED-certified winemaking facility. They recycle vineyard waste (specifically trunk and vine cuttings) through an ancient technique called pyrolysis. This process turns green matter into biochar by heating it in an oxygen-reduced, self-contained "oven." The biochar is then added to Stratus's compost pile and eventually spread throughout the vineyard. The benefits of biochar include creating water balance in the soil, preventing nutrient leaching and putting charcoal back into the soil rather than into the air.

Check them out in the LCBO Ontario wines section.

STYLE SPOTLIGHT

Niagara Escarpment is one of the best places in the world for growing Pinot Noir. Much like the grape's ancestral Burgundian home, the Escarpment "benches" are cool-climate and feature soils rich in limestone. This distinctive mineral component is reflected in the wine, adding an extra layer of intrigue and expression. No wonder these are some of the most celebrated wines Ontario has to offer.

DEALS TO DISCOVER

Harvesting the Gewürztraminer grapes late in the season means the team at Pelee Island Winery can make a wine with extra depth and a subtle suggestion of sweetness to go along with all those lychee and spice flavours. This one also comes in at a sweet price.

PELEE ISLAND LATE HARVEST GEWÜRZTRAMINER 2018

VQA Ontario

Aromatic & Flavourful

25240 (D)
750 mL $15.95

STANDOUT SELECTIONS

Prince Edward County vineyards are cooled by breezes that come in off Lake Ontario; few of them more so than those of Lighthall Vineyards, situated in southern PEC just a stone's throw from the lake. The result is this elegant, expressive Chardonnay.

LIGHTHALL CHARDONNAY 2018

VQA Prince Edward County

Light & Crisp

25243 (XD)

Look for these top-quality wines in Our Wine Country boutiques in 20 select stores, in the Vintages section of select Toronto- and Ottawa-area stores or order online at lcbo.com.

WINERY FOCUS

One of Ontario's most historic wineries, Marynissen Estates Winery planted classic European vinifera varieties in their vineyards back in the 1970s. The Heritage Collection bubbly pay homage to those roots. The Charmed is a blend of Riesling, Gewürztraminer and Muscat, while the Charmed Rosé adds red wine grapes (possibly Pinot Noir, but for this inaugural vintage it's a secret) into the mix. Both are lively, easygoing, and a great way to toast local wine history.
